

John Pittenger

John Pittenger is senior vice president of corporate strategy for Koch Industries, Inc.

Mr. Pittenger serves on the boards of these Koch Industries subsidiaries: Georgia-Pacific Equity Holdings, LLC, INVISTA B.V. and Molex Electronic Technologies Holdings, LLC.

He began his career with Koch in 1991, and has held a variety of roles including director of corporate development, managing director of Koch Development Group, managing director of Koch Equities, president of Koch Domestic Capital Services, and president of Koch Ventures, LLC.

Prior experience includes consulting in the retail, oil and gas, food products, real estate, telecommunications, financial services, consumer goods, building materials, automotive and professional services industries.

Mr. Pittenger earned a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from Princeton University. He also holds a juris doctor and a master's of business administration from Harvard.

Based in Wichita, Kansas., Koch Industries, Inc. is one of the largest private companies in America with estimated annual revenues as high as $100 billion, according to Forbes. It owns a diverse group of companies involved in refining, chemicals, and biofuels; forest and consumer products; fertilizers; polymers and fibers; process and pollution control equipment and technologies; electronics; information systems; commodity trading; minerals; energy; glass; ranching; and investments. Since 2003, Koch companies have invested more than $80 billion in acquisitions and other capital expenditures. With a presence in more than about 60 countries, Koch companies employ more than 120,000 people worldwide, with about 70,000 of those in the United States. From January 2009 to present, Koch companies have earned more than 1,200 awards for safety, environmental excellence, community stewardship, innovation, and customer service.

